

Committee Names Holcombe As Assistant Police Chief; To Raise Physique of Force

Lieutenant Ellis Chosen To Succeed Holcombe as Captain; Vacancies in Police Lieutenancies To Be Filled Thursday.

PHYSICALLY UNFIT OFFICERS MUST GO

Selection of Holcombe and Ellis Made at Informal Session; Ratification
Waits Regular Meeting.

A. J. Holcombe, senior captain of the Atlanta police department, was selected to succeed Assistant Chief C.
P. Connally last night as the police committee moved to weed physically unfit men from the department and to replace them with athletic six-footers to make the local force second to none in the country.

The police committee is in accord with Holcombe's election, and Thursday night there will be nothing left to do but ratify the decision made last night.

Lieutenant Neil Ellis, one of the younger officers of the department who was at first reported as being the choice of the committee, will be officially designated as captain to succeed Holcombe at the Thursday night committee session. No effort was made to decide who will be selected to fill the three vacancies in the lieutenant ranks, but that will be done
Thursday night.

The committee met last night for an informal session at Chief T. O.
Sturdivant's home.

Councilman G. Dan Bridges, chairman, said the committee will move at once to weed physically unfit men from the department roster in a drive to increase the efficiency of the department and that the undertaking will be prosecuted with the consent and support of a majority of the committee members.

"We intend to prosecute the move to raise the standard of the personnel of the department with vigor," Bridges asserted after the meeting. "A majority of the committee feels the same way. We must give the taxpayers a maximum of service for a minimum expenditure and we cannot do that with men who are physically unfit for service."

"It is our intention to raise the standard of physical and mental fitness in order to procure a higher type of personnel. Men will be more rigidly examined and none will be elected to the force if they are not able to perform to their duty."

"There are several other men in the department who have had 25 years of active service and who should be retained.
They are not able to do active duty.
It is not fair to retire one man because he is unfit physically and allow another to remain. It is the purpose of the committee to retire all those who cannot do active duty."

Holcombe is 61 years old, and was elected to the force as what was then known as a "roundman" on May 31, 1901. He was made a sergeant on February 14, 1911; elected a captain
December 13, 1918. He was born February 21, 1874.

Pioneer International Skytrain Will Take Off for Havana Today

MIAMI, Fla., May 13.—(AP)—A half-hour's test flight today left the first international skytrain poised for its projected goodwill hop tomorrow to Havana.

Two gliders, with Jack O'Meara, of New York, and E. Paul du Pont, of Wilmington, Del., at the controls,
and Elwood Klein, of New York, piloting the tow plane, circled Miami, chiefly to test the inter-communicating telephone.

Sweeping into the air from municipal airport at 9 a. m. tomorrow, weather permitting, the skytrain will follow the island chain southward to Key West, about 150 miles. Clearing customs there, the plane and its tow heads out over the straits of Florida to the Cuban Capital, 90 miles away.

President Mendieta and his government planned an enthusiastic welcome for the glider pilots, hoping to greet them on the steps of the capitol building. O'Meara and du Pont expect to cut free from the tow plane and glide to a landing on the broad avenue facing the building.

No mail will be carried on the southbound flight, but the Cuban government has issued 35,000 special air mail stamps bearing the super-charge "Primer Tren Aereo Internacional," (first international air-train), which have been sold at 20 cent.

HOPES DWINDLE FOR BONUS FORCES TO OVERRIDE VETO

Advocates of Measure
Virtually Concede Defeat; Finish of Issue
This Session Predicted.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—(AP)—
In virtual concession of defeat of the Patman bill by the veto route, cash bonus forces went into a huddle tonight to decide upon future strategy for getting legislation at this session of congress.

The conference was called by Senator Thomas, democrat, Oklahoma, Patman bill leader in the senate, when the week-end bombardment of oratory and telegrams failed to break down
White House and senate barriers against the inflationary bill.

Leaders of the drive for the Patman bill announced after the conference tonight they would send the inflationary measure to the White House tomorrow.

House and senate backers of the currency bonus bill survived prospects of the conference and agreed to stand by the Patman bill without compromise.

Even the strongest supporters of the Patman bill conceded that it faced a Republican veto at the White House and that there appeared little hope of overriding the veto in the senate.
Administration leaders in the senate count on at least 25 votes to sustain a veto, whereas 33 are necessary.

Thomas invited to the meeting Representative Wright Patman, democrat, Texas, house author of the bill; representatives of the veterans' organization; and other senators.

Thomas said he expected to withdraw tomorrow his reconsideration motion that has been holding the Patman bill in the senate, and let it go to the White House. Final decision on that parliamentary move was postponed, however, pending the approval of the conference.

Republican leaders were urging that if the Patman bill were killed, the Vinson cash payment plan advanced by the American Legion, should be pushed forward. Inflationary forces, however, were in favor of going along on that proposition.

Although voting against the bonus
in previous legislative skirmishes, Senator Walter F. George, of Georgia, announced today he will cast his lot with the measure.

MAJOR JOHN S. COHEN, JOURNAL EDITOR, DIES

MAJOR JOHN S. COHEN.

Major John S. Cohen, 65, president and editor of the Atlanta Journal, vice chairman of the national democratic committee and former United States senator, died at 9:45 o'clock last night at his residence, 941 Peachtree street, N. E., following an extended illness.

Major Cohen had been in declining health several months and only last week returned from Rochester, Minn., where he went for treatment of an ulcerated stomach.

Hope was abandoned for his recovery and members of the family were summoned to his bedside following the immediate family, with the exception of his daughter, Mrs. Jean M.
Bienvenu, of Lisbon, Portugal, who arrives in New York today with her children, were at the bedside at the time of his death.

Leader in Party.
A leader in the councils of the democratic party, Major Cohen cut short a prospective career in the navy to distinguish himself as a journalist and in the political field.

Resides his newspaper work and political activities he was a champion of good roads and education and an outstanding figure among the builders of the new south. During the Spanish-American war he served as an officer in the United States army.

He was appointed to the United States senate by Governor Richard B. Russell Jr. in 1932 to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Senator William J. Harris and remained in the senate until Russell offered for the office and was elected nine months later.

That same year Major Cohen was made vice chairman of the democratic national committee.

Native of Augusta.
A native of Augusta, Ga., Major Cohen entered the United States Naval Academy in 1885 after preliminary training in Richmond Academy, Augusta, and Shenandoah Valley Academy in Virginia. He resigned from the naval academy in 1886 to begin his journalistic career.

He first joined the staff of the Augusta Chronicle and four years later joined the Atlanta Journal.

ITALY MOBILIZES ANOTHER 200,000

Action Coincides With Readiness To Name Conciliators.

ROME, May 13.—(AP)—Italy dispatched mobilization notices today to soldiers of the class of 1912, numbering 200,000, a government spokesman citing Ethiopia's "evident attitude of hostility."

At the same time, the spokesman announced Italy is ready to declare the names of her conciliators, chosen under the Italo-Ethiopian arbitration treaty, as soon as Ethiopia's declarations and notes to the League of Nations show her readiness to do likewise.

Asserting Italo-Ethiopian border difficulties in East Africa have been brought into "greater limelight" by Emperor Haile Selassie's declarations and notes to the League of Nations, the spokesman said Italy intends to continue her precautionary program to guard her colonies.

That Italy is determined to deal with the Ethiopian situation once and for all was indicated by an official inspired front-page article in the Giornale D'Italia asserting diplomatic pressure by England and France would have no effect on Italy and would merely result in giving moral aid to Ethiopia.

The mobilization notices called upon the members of the class of 1912 to present themselves at concentration points May 17.

Further notices also have gone out to members of the class of 1911, but only to men who have served only a few months in the military forces, or not at all because of failure to pass physical examinations.

Whether the notices to the class of 1912, the only class between 1911 and 1914 not under arms, applies to the entire class, and whether the men have been summoned for real mobilization or merely in readiness for mobilization, will not be known until an official communique is published.

Heralding in the face of this military activity, Italy's readiness for arbitration, the government spokesman said Italy will not publish the names of her chosen conciliators until Ethiopia replies that her emperor is ready to announce the names of his own representatives.

The spokesman denied reports that he had been planning by England or France to be planned by England or France.

Morgenthau Says America Ready To Stabilize Dollar But Will Not Act Alone

Barbara Will Become Countess Day After Losing Title of Princess

RENO, Nev., May 13.—(AP)— Wedding bells are expected to ring tomorrow for the newly divorced
Princess Barbara Hutton McMani, Woolworth heiress, and the handsome Danish noble, Count Kurt Haugwitz-Reventlow.

From a reliable source it was learned tonight that the countess, who has denied she intends to marry the princess—has already arrived in Reno and is making plans to take the $400,000 heiress back to Europe with him.

The count was understood to have arrived in Reno, Nev., 12 miles west of here, on the Southern Pacific Limited this afternoon, only a few hours after the pretty princess divorced her polo-playing husband, Alex McMani.

The count was met at Reno by

Purpose of Devaluation Has Been Achieved in Protecting U. S. Com- merce; Hands Must Be Kept Untied for Defense.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—(AP)—A notice to the world that "Washington will not be an obstacle" to international currency stabilization was coupled by Secretary Morgenthau tonight with a warning that this nation will not act singly to peg the dollar.

In a nationwide radio address—awaited intently by business and financial interests as one of the administration's infrequent statements of its money policy—the treasury secretary summed up his argument in these words:

"Why should we be singled out and admonished that the moral duty to restore order is primarily ours? Before we make any commitments, we must be sure that we will not lose what we have just regained."

Hands Are Untied.

"We are not unwilling to stabilize.
However, if the great trading nations elect to continue under the present absence of rules we are no longer at a disadvantage. We revalued our currency no more than was necessary and we can go there way. Our hands are untied."

Morgenthau spoke into a microphone in his own treasury office, discussing
"the American dollar" and telling
"what was done, why and the effect."

Most of his remarks were devoted to world trade conditions before and after the United States went off the gold standard and devalued the dollar.

But the heart of his speech concerned the administration's view of international monetary stabilization, and an argument as to why this nation should not take the lead in such an effort.

"If we launched out alone on such a course," the treasury head said, "it would put us right back where we were in 1932 and offer a tempting invitation for the others to follow, but again to take advantage of our disadvantage."

Dollar Is Steady.

"To argue that the government should declare 'that we will not change the present gold content of the dollar,' he replied:

"So far from engaging in a competitive devaluation race with other nations, we hold out to them a currency of such steadiness that the normal tendency may very well be for the best of the world to move gradually toward it."

BULLETIN POLITICS MAY BRING RAISE IN POSTAGE RATE

Linder Warned That Second Class Rate Does Not Permit Mailing of 'Political Organ.'

Warning that unless he ceased political comments in the Market Bulletin, organ of the state department of agriculture, postage rates on the publication would be reclassified and the rates boosted 2,000 per cent was received yesterday by Commissioner of Agriculture Tom Linder from the United States postoffice department.

The warning was conveyed to Linder by Acting Postmaster Lon Livingston, acting on instructions from Washington. The commissioner of agriculture said that he would comply with the regulations, Mr. Livingston said.

Linder, however, in a statement issued last night, said that he "expected fair treatment from the postoffice department" and that the "Market Bulletin would go forward as usual."

Agricultural bulletins issued by state departments of agriculture are admitted to the United States mails as second-class matter under section 522 of the postal laws of 1934. Approximately 100,000 copies of the Bulletin are mailed at a cost of $50 per week, or one-twentieth of a cent per copy. If the Bulletin is reclassified as political, the rate would be 1 cent per copy, or $1,000 per weekly issue.

Under postal laws, such agricultural bulletins may be published only for the purpose of furthering the objects of such departments, and shall not contain any advertising matter of any kind. So far as is known, the Market Bulletin has not carried any paid advertising matter.

"I have a right to expect fair treatment from the postoffice department for the purpose of furthering the objects of such departments, and shall not contain any advertising matter of any kind. So far as is known, the Market Bulletin has not carried any
paid advertising matter."

Under the law of the postoffice department, section 522, we have the right to expect fair treatment from the postoffice department for the purpose of furthering the objects of such departments, and shall not contain any advertising matter of any kind. So far as is known, the Market Bulletin has not carried any paid advertising matter."

He declined to comment further.
In making public the resolution yesterday, Dr. Baldwin, a well-known Lakewood Heights dentist, said he wanted it known that 25 members of the church women's missionary society, constituting a majority of that body, had been to see Dr. Russell in behalf of Dr. McBrayer.

The resolution, which was signed by L. W. Smith, chairman of the stewards, and D. P. Phoenix, secretary, and Dr. Baldwin, followed:

"Be it resolved, that the official board of the Methodist Episcopal church, Lakewood Heights, at its regular meeting May 7, 1935, has voted that we go on record as endorsing our pastor, Rev. H. E. McBrayer, on the statement that he is opposed to propitiation in the present form, and consequently believes that repeal is better for all concerned."

"Be it further resolved: We believe that our pastor has a right to make such a statement and that as officials of his church, we agree with him."
The resolution was passed by a vote of 25 to 0.

"Be it further resolved: That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the presiding elder and same recorded in the minutes of the church."

Respectfully signed,
L. W. SMITH,
Chairman.
D. P. PHOENIX,
Secretary.

"DR. O. L. BALDWIN, Chairman Resolutions Committee."
As the repeal campaign neared a close, statements renewing their expression of confidence in Dr. McBrayer were received from several members of the congregation.

Rain Falls Throughout Dust Storm District

KANSAS CITY, May 13.—(AP)—
The nation's dust bowl became a rain barrel today. Welcomed drops pattered steadily upon prairie and desert, from Kansas, Colorado, Oklahoma and Texas.

Music to the ears of residents and life itself to crops and pastures, the rain measured from less than an inch in the drier sections to cloudbursts which put streams out of their banks in south-central Kansas and Oklahoma.

Few spots in the area racked for months by storms of blowing silt were missed altogether. S. D. Flora, metologist at Topeka, said additional showers were in prospect.

Liberal, Kan., heart of the dust area, received moisture totaling .20 of an inch and skies remained cloudy.

South of Liberal in the Oklahoma panhandle, rainfall ranged from .35 of an inch to 3 inches in eastern Beaver county.

At Geyton, Okla., precipitation was .16 of an inch. Overcast skies indicated more likely. Rain also was reported at Dalhart, and Amarillo, Texas. Mist filled the air at Gey-mon, Okla. In the Colorado portion of the dust bowl showers fell.

To the north and east of the dust bowl rains were much heavier.

FIGHT FOR REPEAL BY PASTOR VOTED CHURCH APPROVAL

Board of Stewards at Lakewood Church Backs McBrayer Stand for Repeal, 20 to 1.

By a vote of 22 to 1 the board of stewards of the Lakewood Heights Methodist Episcopal church has adopted a resolution endorsing the stand for repeal of the state prohibition law taken by the church's pastor, the Rev.
H. E. McBrayer, it was announced yesterday by Dr. Stephens L. Baldwin, chairman of the resolutions committee of the church board.

In the resolution it was stated by the stewards: "We believe our pastor has a right to make such a statement and that as officials of his church we agree with him."

Dr. McBrayer, who is secretary of the Atlanta Methodist Ministers' Association, had a long conference with members of the association Monday.
He previously has stated he expects to be dismissed from his church as a result of his activities in behalf of prohibition repeal, which the church has been fighting.

Asked if any disciplinary action is being planned against the minister, Dr. L. Russell, presiding elder of the Atlanta district, first said "that is none of your business." Later he said "when anything happens we will let you know."

He declined to comment further.
In making public the resolution yes-

Roused by Race Scene, Horse Wrecks Theater

LONDON, May 13.—(AP)—A freak experiment to determine whether a movie race track scene would have any effect on a horse left a Southfield theater nearly wrecked today.

The horse, a hunter mare, was taken to a private showing of the film and watched calmly enough while parts of the picture were screened.

Once the pictured race got under way, however, the mare pricked up her ears, whinnied shrilly, and started a wild rampage, dragging her groom, William Rennie, with her. Twenty seats and stalls were smashed before she could be quieted.

Mitchell stated his stepfather had been a fine carpenter, but for the last two years had been unemployed and on the relief rolls.

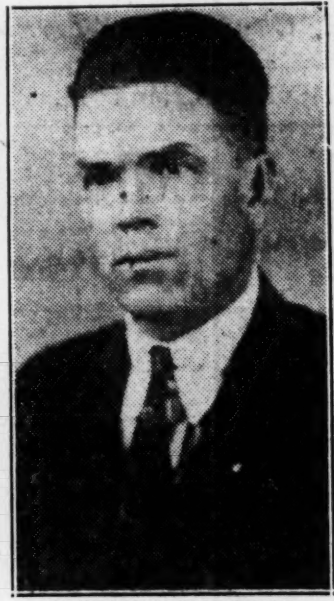

Mrs. Walters is survived by the two sons, Harley Mitchell, who lives in Atlanta and is employed at a local ice plant, and Eugene Mitchell, 24, of Gadsden, Ala.; her mother, Mrs. Lula Channell, also of Gadsden; three sisters, Mrs. H. W. Oliver, of Atlanta; Mrs. W. H. Heptinstall, of Gadsden, and Mrs. F. M. Monroe, of Huntington, W. Va., and a brother, G. D. Sargent, of Collinsville, Ala. Funeral arrangements will be announced by Harry G. Poole.

Walters remained at the morgue at Grady hospital last night, unclaimed. His stepson said he thought his home was near Austell and that he was survived by several brothers and sisters.

Family Quarreling, Bumps on Head Declared No Cause for Insanity

WASHINGTON, May 13.—(AP)—A notable gathering of psychiatrists heard today that quarreling with the wife or bumps on the head are overrated as causes of insanity.

Abraham Myerson, M. D., of Boston, told the American Psychiatric Association today even "great strife" in the family circle brings on insanity and psychiatrists.

Admitting that some cases of insanity follow physical or psychic injury, he said that expert testimony unduly linking injuries with subsequent mental disorders is "disastrous to justice and to the prestige of psychiatry and psychiatrists."

Today's meeting opened a five-day session of about 1,500 physicians to consider the increase of mental disorders. One person in every 22 in this country, it was stated, will find himself at some time a patient in a mental hospital.

Dr. Myerson discussed injuries and two kinds of insanity, manic-depressive, which results in excitability, either destructive or exalted, and dementia praecox which may cause stupor or delusion.

UTILITIES MEASURE GIVEN TO SENATE

WASHINGTON, May 13.—(AP)—Although torn by internal dissension, the senate interstate commerce committee wrote an emphatic approval to-day on the administration bill to abolish all but "necessary" public utility holding companies by 1942.

The action pushed the hotly-contested measure to the senate floor where a stiff fight was in prospect over many provisions. It closed also weeks of public hearings and secret sessions. The executive committee climaxed brusquely today when two committee members—Senators Hastings, republican, Delaware, and Dieterich, democrat, Illinois—refused to vote upon a new draft of the control plan and marched out of the committee room complaining they had been given less than an hour to discuss a 151-page bill.

But Chairman Wheeler, democrat, Montana, co-author of the measure, insisted members had been given ample time to consider the bill since the new print merely incorporated the old draft with committee amendments.

The new draft was presented to the committee for the first time this morning. After a brief session behind closed doors a clerk officially reported the vote for reporting the bill to the senate was 14 to 2, although Hastings and Dieterich had walked out without balloting.

"Considerably Modified."

The bill was described by Wheeler as "considerably modified" from its first form. While it still directed abolition of all holding companies which could not show themselves necessary to the efficient operation of geographically-integrated operating companies, it gives them an opportunity to reorganize as investment trusts provided they shear themselves of any influence over the operating companies.

Dentists Seek New Plan For 'Low Income' Patients

Guest speakers at the 67th annual session of the Georgia Dental Association at the Ansley hotel include Dr. Virgil R. Hawkins, of Union, S. C., seated at the left, and Dr. Ralph Roush, of Columbus, Ohio, right. Dr. Francis Scott Weir, of New York City, standing at the right. Dr. W. A. Garrett, of Atlanta, chairman of the program committee, is standing at the left. Staff photo.

Necessity of a definite plan to enable dentists to care for patients in the low income groups was stressed yesterday at the opening meeting of the 67th annual session of the Georgia Dental Association at the Ansley hotel by Dr. Russell Mitchell, of Atlanta.

Dr. Mitchell stated in his report that "the demand for adequate care to the underprivileged exists and must be met. The dental profession must offer a plan of their own and under their control and guidance instead of under lay control which does not work to the best interest of the profession or patient."

The afternoon session yesterday was devoted to specialized clinics by visiting dentists, including Dr. Ralph Roush, of Columbus, Ohio, who lectured on the treatment of pyorrhea.

Dr. Thomas Scott Weir, of New York City, who lectured on the construction of artificial teeth, and Dr. Virgil Hawkins, of Union, S. C., who described old and new methods of making amalgam fillings.

Dr. C. M. Harwell, of Atlanta, exhibited a technique in a picture showing the artificial restoration of a face, including the nose and eye, which had been destroyed by cancer.

Dr. Roy Kreske, of Emory University, was the principal speaker at the session last night, speaking on Agranulocytosis.

Annual banquet of the association will be held tonight at the Ansley hotel roof garden, with Dr. Harvey Payne, of Atlanta, in charge.

The session will be concluded tomorrow afternoon following the installation of new officers.

Stating that the public should keep in mind the life insurance is for living people, he said "life insurance is bought not because someone is going to die, but because someone is going to live and need money."

"A newspaper editorial, not long ago, described life insurance as the greatest community chest in the world," he said, "because it is filled by men's foresight in making sure that neither their names in later years nor their families' names in case of death, may ever be thrown on the rolls of charity. As a matter of fact, when we study what life insurance has accomplished during depression years, we realize not only how truly this description fits the actual situation, but also why life insurance is proving an important factor in the redistribution of wealth. Last year, for instance, the payments made by the life insurance companies of this country to living policyholders and beneficiaries amounted to more than $2,700,000,000 while in the last five depression years, the payments to living policyholders amounted to $9,157,000,000 and to beneficiaries $4,584,000,000 or a total of $13,741,000,000."

Howard Pattillo, 65, member of a pioneer and prominent Georgia family, well-known Atlanta insurance executive and former member of city council, died yesterday at the residence in the Ponce de Leon apartments. He had been in poor health for several years, but his condition had been considered critical only since last week.

He was born in Atlanta, the son of William P. Pattillo and Sallie Chase Pattillo. His father was a lay preacher, steward of the Trinity church, a trustee of Emory College and in 1899 founded the insurance agency which his son headed at the time of his death. His mother, a native of Athens, Ga., was prominent in social, civic and religious work in Atlanta and was one of the organizers and president of the Atlanta Woman's Club, as well as a member of the Colonial Dames, D. A. R. and U. D. C.

At the time of his death, Mr. Pattillo was head of the Howard Pattillo Fire Insurance Agency, with offices in the Healey building. It is the second oldest company of its kind in Atlanta. He represented the Southern Mutual Insurance Company, of Athens, the Georgia Home Insurance Company of Columbus, and the National Fire Insurance Company of Hartford, Conn.

He was educated in the public schools of Atlanta and at old Emory College, at Oxford, where he was a member of the Chi Phi fraternity. He was a member of the board of honorary stewards of Trinity Methodist church, the Atlanta Athletic Club and the Georgia Lodge No. 96, F. & A. M. He was a member of the Atlanta city council in 1905 and 1906, and for three years served as a member of the police commission.

He is survived by his wife, the former Penelope Coates, of Milledgeville; a daughter, Miss Elizabeth Chase Pattillo; two sisters, Mrs. John S. Cowles, of Atlanta, and Mrs. J. E. Van Valkenburg, of Decatur, and several nieces and nephews.

Funeral services will be conducted at 11:30 o'clock this morning at Spring Hill. Burial will be in Oakland cemetery. Pallbearers will be R. E. Richards, Gus Dodd, Frank Berry, Z. A. Rice, Harry May, Dr. William M. Warren Sr., J. Brittain Raggsdale, Dr. Guy D. Ayer, Harry Flynn and W. J. Franklin.

Lamson Jury Again Denied Dismissal

SAN JOSE, Cal., May 13.—(AP)—Its second request for dismissal rejected, the jury trying David A. Lamson for wife murder, stood over today to break a 9-3 deadlock.

Whether the standing was for conviction or acquittal was not disclosed as Miss Mary Richter, foreman of the seven men and five women, asked for dismissal shortly before noon.

More than 65 12-hour days had passed since the jury began deliberating the fate of the former Stanford University Press executive, who is charged with slaying his attractive wife, Allen, by bludgeoning her with an iron pipe. Lamson contended that she was injured fatally in an accidental fall in a bath tub.

Lamson listened attentively as Miss Richter told Judge Robert R. Sayer the numerical standing was 9 to 3, a deadlock existing since Saturday.

TEACHERS' SALARIES
SUBJECT OF MEETING

Half a score of younger school teachers last night demanded reinstatement of automatic salary increases to the applause of a large gallery of supporters as the personnel and salary adjustment committee of the Atlanta Board of Education held an open meeting to discuss details of a proposed shift of about $150,000 from various accounts to re-establish the increases.

Leaders of the Atlanta Public School Teachers' Association, however, opposed any change in the present set-up which would reflect greater cuts for employees in the higher brackets.

Eugene Sanders, president, read a resolution passed Monday afternoon by the organization favoring diversion of any additional money which may come to the board to restoring "automatic increases and earned increments to all teachers to whom they may be due."

W. W. Matthews, chairman of the committee, and J. J. Harrelson, former president of the board, had a brush when Matthews ruled Harrelson out of order when he attempted to discuss a "share-the-wealth plan" at the meeting and when Harrelson assaulted Matthews.

GEORGIA SOLONS SEEK SCHOOL AID

Hopkins Urged To Disregard Attitude of Talmadge in Matter.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—(AP)—A new appeal for relief funds to pay back salaries of Georgia school teachers, setting forth that these teachers should not be injured by "the attitude" of Governor Talmadge, was sent today to Harry L. Hopkins, relief administrator.

Signed by Representatives Tarrer, Deen and Peterson, the formal appeal gave five reasons which the Cracker members said justified their stand. The fifth and final point in their argument said:

"We insist that while the differences between our governor and the federal relief administrator are regrettable, the attitude of the governor under the circumstances detailed should not rebound to the injury of the distressed school teachers of our state, and we feel it to be our duty in their behalf to present these facts for consideration."

The other four points presented were as follows:

1. Twelve thousand Georgia teachers received federal aid in 1934 and approximately this number has been teaching since state, county and school district funds were exhausted in the belief similar aid would be forthcoming this year.

2. That the appropriation for Georgia for its school session of 1934-35 was made by the legislature in 1933 and was identical to the appropriations for 1933-34, and in addition more than $1,500,000 was added by recent legislative action by diversion of highway funds. Further that Georgia's expenditures per capita per pupil are approximately the same as those in Alabama, which received relief aid for schools as of February 1, while such federal funds were not available in Georgia until April 19.

3. In determining whether Georgia has done everything it can to maintain its schools, reference must not only be had to the rate of taxation maintained by the state but to the taxation for school purposes imposed by counties, municipalities and school districts.

4. That "the failure of the Georgia legislature at its 1935 session to pass a general appropriation bill is regrettable, but has no bearing on this question since such a bill would have applied to the school year 1935-36, whereas the pending need is for the school year 1934-35."

Blames Talmadge.
Hopkins recently gave an emphatic "No" to a request by the Georgia congressional group that the school aid be made retroactive to February 1, and laid the responsibility for the distressed teachers squarely upon Governor Talmadge, who he said "blinded" a bill in the legislature intended for their relief.

At the time the administrator pointed out that only 18 other states were receiving federal funds for school purposes, and all of those except Georgia had taken definite steps to solve their school problems and remove the necessity for continued government relief.

Such aid has been conditioned by Hopkins on efforts of the states to help themselves.

The new appeal placed emphasis on the fact Alabama had received aid since February, and pointed out the Georgia teachers had been working for months without compensation "in the hope that they might be paid through federal relief channels."

"The disparity between the treatment accorded Alabama and that accorded Georgia under substantially similar conditions," said the Georgians, "must be impressive and under the circumstances detailed is not justified."

FARMERS ARRIVE TO BACK NEW DEAL

WASHINGTON, May 13.—(AP)—Scores of weather-worn dirt farmers from more than 25 states began assembling in Washington tonight voicing a determination to show congress and business critics that agriculture wants the farm adjustment continued. C. H. Day, Plainview, Texas, unofficial leader of the pilgrimage, estimated that more than 500 farmers were in the capital tonight. The railroads reported seven special trains, each carrying around 350 farmers, is scheduled to arrive here between 7 and 9 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Delegates from North Carolina, 1,500 farmers from that state would be here for tomorrow's mass meeting. Fifty arrived today from South Dakota. One was here from Montana and said 12 others will join him.

Day, completing arrangements for the program, said there should be from 2,000 to 4,000 farmers at Constitution Hall when the program opens at 9:30 a. m. (eastern standard time) Tuesday.

Pilgrimage Spontaneous.
As the farmers began pouring in by train, automobile and bus, the question heard most frequently was who sponsored the movement and who is paying the costs.

Sam Lassen, corn-hog farmer from Brookings county, South Dakota, described the pilgrimage as a spontaneous, undirected response of the farmers to criticism of the AAA and the processing tax.

"Nobody asked us if we would come to Washington," Lassen said in emphatic, clipped phrases. "We didn't ask anybody if we could come. We didn't like this criticism of the AAA. Business and industry have been receiving benefits for years. Under the AAA, the farmers have been getting a break. We are going to see that we keep on getting this break."

"So we organized it in South Dakota to send delegates to Washington. Some of the corn-hog committeemen contributed one day's pay to the fund. We passed the hat and took contributions of from 25 cents up. We selected 20 delegates before we heard of the movement from any other state."

Pay Own Expenses.
F. H. Richardson, who operates a 700-acre wheat farm in Stillwater county, Montana, said each of the 13 Montana delegates is paying his own expenses.

"That's why there are so few of us coming," Richardson said. One farmer estimated privately that more than $50,000 was raised in Texas to send delegates.

Secretary Wallace and Chester C. Davis, AAA administrator, also were listed for talks.

Many farmers called today at the house agriculture committee which is polishing amendatory legislation to clarify the AAA. Chairman Jones said visiting farmers would be given a hearing if they requested one.

Talmadge Renews Attacks on Roosevelt and Wallace As Georgia Cotton Farmers Start Pilgrimage to Capital

Governor Talmadge renewed his attacks on the national administration President Roosevelt and Secretary of Agriculture Wallace as a trainload of Georgia and Alabama farmers departed from Atlanta for Washington where today the farmers will tell the president and Secretary Wallace they are behind the agriculture adjustment administration 100 per cent.

The governor's newest attack on the administration came in his article in the Statesman, a weekly publication which he edits.

In the article the governor intimated the federal government is paying the expenses of the farmers to Washington. This was denied by S. E. Statham, of Americus, one of the leaders of the farmers' party. E. N. Weatherly, of Cochran, another leader, said that while the farmers do not agree with everything the national administration is doing they realize "President Roosevelt is doing his best to help agriculture."

Weatherly said a national organization of farmers might result from the trip. With Statham he said nearly 500 farmers from Georgia and Alabama would be in Washington today, nearly 200 already having started by train.

To Meet Delegation.
Shortly before the train left Atlanta, Statham sent a telegram to Senator Walter F. George and made arrangements for the farmers to meet with the Georgia delegation in congress tonight.

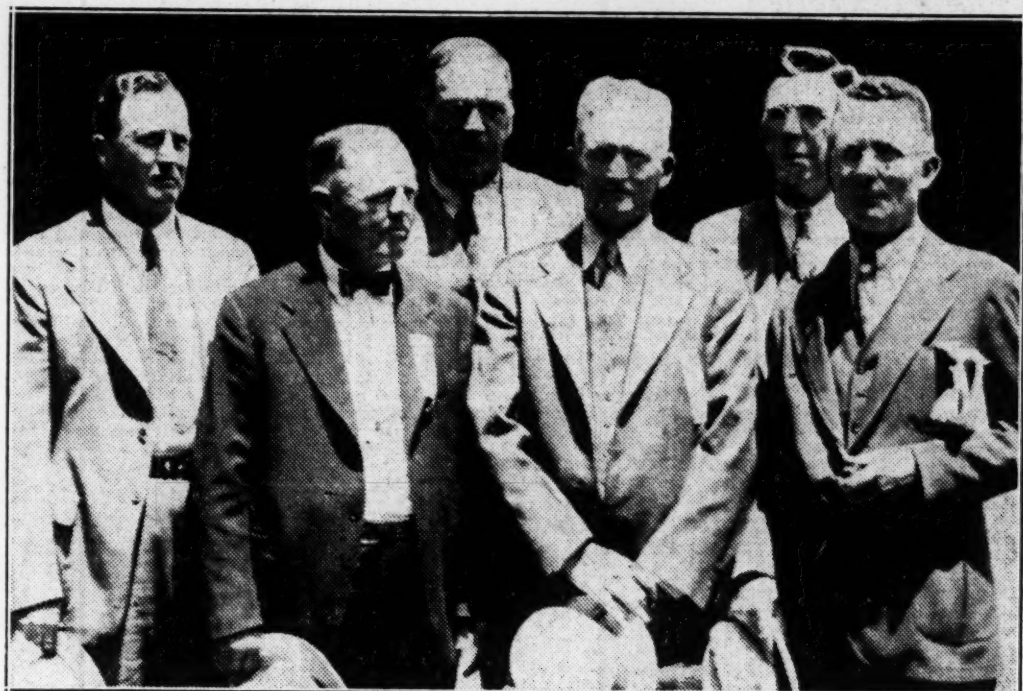

Weatherly declined to elaborate on the organization plan but said "we lost the farmers of the middle west during the Civil War and we want them back."

Weatherly said the farmers "felt they have been betrayed by the governor."

"This trip is a spontaneous expression of our appreciation to the president for what he has done for us," the leader added.

The party concentrated here for the trip to Washington.

"I am glad the government agents business themselves and had these farmers go to Washington, bragging on this cruel processing tax that is coming out of their crops," Governor Talmadge wrote.

"Of course this kind of tactics is fooling no one. The administration in Washington is trying to kid itself. 'Hurry up and carry some more winds, pouring it into rat holes, you farmers to Washington. As long as might just as well give the farmers you are throwing the money to the some to take trips to Washington.

Once in a while there comes out of Paris a dress that is essentially French in spirit and design, yet strikes an immediate affinity with American women. This is such a dress. It has a black background (that's news); and an unobtrusive sprinkling of vivid color; and a knife-pleated skirt that contributes the new fullness; and a cape-jacket top that's formal enough for tea or dinner. ## Philippines Voting On Independence

MANILA, May 14.—(Tuesday)—Still jittery over sakdalista disturbances, Filipinos voted at heavily guarded polls today as government leaders unanimously predicted overwhelming ratification of the 10-year commonwealth government before complete independence from the United States.

Reinforced constabulary was unusually alert because of recurrent rumors of further violence planned by the sakdalistas or advocates of immediate independence, whose uprising May 2 resulted in 60 deaths.

The voting began at 7 a. m. (9 p. m. Monday, eastern standard time) and advices from several provinces indicated the balloting was lighter than in the elections of last June, despite the addition of women's suffrage.

More than 200,000 women had the ballot privilege for the first time, but some were expected to remain away from the polls because of fear of violence, although Interior Secretary Teofilo Sison promised heavy guards.

Music at Meetings.
"I knew that the FEHA was sponsoring music and paying for orchestras. I am glad that they are going to give the farmers some of the music."

"In the calls for these meetings they have a sentence like this: 'If you want these government checks to continue coming to you you had better get busy. Come out to these meetings and let your wishes be known.'"

"These same notices contain this paragraph: 'We have the greatest president our nation has ever known. He has the interest of the farmer at heart. Come out and let's show him that we appreciate what he has done for us.'"

"I hope the farmers of Georgia won't be deceived by these meetings. Attend them is my advice to you. 'I also advise you to get the checks if they continue to make you curtail your acreage.'"

"I want to say this: These checks are dearly bought."

The governor continued his assaults on the national administration with a statement that Secretary of Agriculture Wallace should be removed from office immediately "for trying to deceive the farmers."

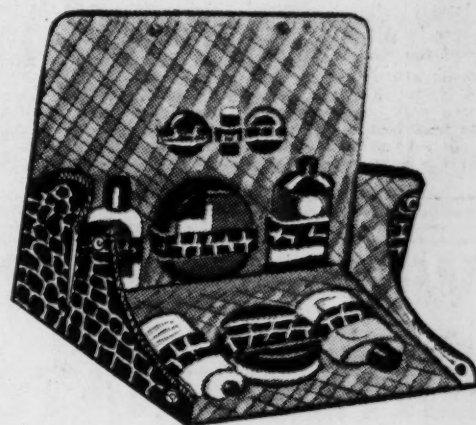

The governor said Wallace "tried to deceive the farmers in a speech in Louisiana recently in which Talmadge said Wallace described the processing taxes as a tariff that was beneficial to the growers."

Winners To Be Announced Sunday In Constitution Limerick Contest

Winners in The Constitution limerick contest will be announced next Sunday, by which time the contest judges will have finished the task of going through the hundreds of clever limericks telling why The Constitution has the largest daily circulation of any newspaper in Atlanta.

The winner of the contest will receive $25 in cash; $15 will be awarded for second prize; $10 for third prize, and there will be five $1 awards for the next best limericks.

When the contest was announced it was thought the winners could be selected a week after the close of the contest, which was May 1. However, so many entries were received, and they were so uniformly clever, that the task of the judges has been more than difficult.

The judges are on the final lap this week, and by Sunday it will be possible to announce the prize winners. Literally hundreds of telephone calls have been received at The Constitution during the past week asking when the winners will be selected. The judges have been working overtime so that the announcement could be made as early as possible.

During the World War he served as a major and following the war returned to Atlanta to continue his medical practice. At the time of his death he was physician for the mills at Chattahoochee, Ga.

He is survived by his wife; two brothers, Harry Goldsmith Greer, of Atlanta, and Turner Greer, of Roswell; a sister, Mrs. George Tunnell, of Milledgeville; a nephew, the Rev. Harry Ross Greer, of Millbrook, N. Y., and a niece, Dr. Elizabeth Greer, of Staunton, Va.

U. S. Relief Rolls Gain Six Families in April

Number of families on the federal relief rolls in Georgia increased by six during April, the total as of April 30 being 78,966, according to Miss Gay B. Shepperson, FERA administrator for Georgia.

It was believed April would show a decided decrease in the number of unemployed in the state, but frequent rains during the month delayed seasonal employment that had been counted upon to provide jobs for idle workers.

FERA statistics show that for every case registered, 4.2 persons are carried on the relief rolls. Thus, there are approximately 330,000 persons receiving aid in Georgia at present.

GASOLINE TAX JUMPS $2,000,000 IN 1934

Motor fuel taxes in Georgia gained nearly $2,000,000 in 1934 over the 1933 total, State Auditor Tom Wisdom revealed yesterday in his audit of the accounts of Comptroller General William B. Harrison.

In 1934 the total taxes collected from gasoline and kerosene were $14,304,530 as compared with $12,414,984 collected during 1933.

Atlanta To Get Share Of Work Relief Cash

Controversy between the Roosevelt administration and Governor Talmadge will not militate against Atlanta in securing public improvements from the new work-relief bill, Mayor Key announced yesterday after a conference with Miss Gay B. Shepperson, state relief administrator in charge of Georgia expenditures.

Modernization of the sewer system of metropolitan Atlanta is at the head of the list of projects for which Miss Shepperson intends to make expenditures, Key asserted. Large allocations already have been made for sewers and much progress has been registered, but Key expressed a hope the government will continue its cooperation in that respect and said he felt assured it will do so.

Civic center improvements also have the sympathy of Miss Shepperson and several others, including elimination of grade crossings also are high on her list.

"Miss Shepperson, however, is firm in her conviction that the federal government can not furnish all the materials and all the labor for all the projects," Key said after the conference.

"On the other hand, Atlanta has no money with which to buy materials. Our committee adjourned without reaching a definite decision and subject to future call and that without notice."

"Miss Shepperson has been a good friend to Atlanta and has done what she could for us. I feel confident she realizes the position of the city and will continue to co-operate as fully as is possible under the circumstances."

DR. WELLS 301 Broad St., Cor. Alabama (Near Rich's Dept. Store)

To go on with this informal treatment of the soil erosion problem pending in Georgia, I get happier about it every time I think of the subject. The thing is so fundamental, so absolutely necessary for the future of the nation, and its effects on farming activities will be so far reaching that it almost gives one hope for seeing a clear Chattahoochee within the span of present lives.

In the very early days of my life I lived in Marietta and used to come with my mother down to Atlanta on the interurban cars. I recall one passage over the Bolton bridge that was made at very slow speed, for the water of the river was just awash on the bridge deck. I have never seen such a mass of swirling, angry, red water before or since. It impressed me considerably. And I reached the age of 16 before it ever occurred to me that the rivers had not always been red. That astounded my youthful mind. It was such a novel idea. I had become accustomed to seeing red rivers and everything else was strange. I knew that many of the larger streams of the north were clear and vaguely entertained a wish that the Chattahoochee might be, but as for it being within the bounds of possibility, such a thing was out of the question.

When the full force of the idea that the old red gully had not always been like that, but that it had come about as a result of our carelessness, dawned on me, then was followed by the corollary that the river could be returned to its original condition. I became enthusiastic over soil erosion work and have retained the original flame of enthusiasm with accrued interest compounded daily.

Envision, if you will, or if you can, a clear Chattahoochee. See in your mind's eye the birches and willows that flank its shores mirrored in the crystalline waters. Every rock on the bottom, even in midchannel,

BAPTISTS GATHER FOR DIXIE MEETING

Incumbent Indicates He Will Not Seek Presidency Anew.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 13.—(AP)—Gratified that they have "at last turned the corner toward recovery," Baptist leaders of the south began arriving today for their annual convention, opening Wednesday afternoon.

Dr. M. E. Dodd, of Shreveport, La., president of the Southern Baptist convention, has indicated that he will not seek the presidency again. Several outstanding ministers were mentioned as possible successors, including Dr. John Jeter Hurt, president of Union University, Jackson, Tenn.; Dr. Frank Tripp, St. Joseph, Mo., general leader of the Baptist Hundred Thousand Club; Dr. Robert G. Lee, pastor of Memphis' Bellevue Baptist church, and Dr. R. L. Scarborough, of Fort Worth, Texas, first vice president.

"During the past four years, southern Baptists have gained 623 additional churches, 1,293 more Sunday schools," said a report prepared by E. P. Aldredge, Nashville, Tenn., statistical secretary.

"This record, moreover," continued the report, "is without a parallel among any of the large denominations in America. Since 1929, that is for the past 15 consecutive years, southern Baptists have baptized upon the average, 204,551 souls each year and had an average net gain to the membership of the churches of 92,319. The total baptisms in 15 years have been 3,067,270. Total net membership gains in 15 years, 1,354,789." The report said that in 1934 there were 288 more Sunday schools in 1934 and an enrollment gain of 34,927.

"Since 1931, the gains of the Baptist Training Union have been larger than the gains of the young people's organizations of any other denomination in America," the report added. "During the past three years, the Baptist Training Union has gained 8,850 new organizations."

Contributions for southern Baptists, both for local work of the churches and for mission, education and benevolent causes "showed a healthy gain in 1934," for "the first time since the depression began in 1929."

68 Per Cent Unenlisted.
Dr. Aldredge added, however, that "we are still 68 per cent unenlisted," in replying to his own question, "What is the matter with southern Baptists?" He also said churches are giving too large a proportion of their gifts to their own local work and too little to missions and benevolence.

Three thousand women attended the opening night of the Woman's Missionary Union meeting. Miss Kathleen Mallory, corresponding secretary, reported that during the past year more than 13,000 organizations of the union "registered a united gain in winning 7,690 souls."

She said total gifts of the union for 1934 were $1,915,809.99. This included $74,100.65 for the "100,000 Club" and debt-paying campaign; $15,885.71 for foreign missions; $186,635.27 for home missions; $35,345.20 for ministerial relief; $275,235.38 for Christian education; $686,299.37 for state and other Southern Baptist convention objects, and Margaret Fund and Training School, $38,332.

MRS. EMMA G. MORRIS TO REVIEW NEW BOOK

Mrs. Emma Garrett Morris will speak on the recent book by H. G. Wells, "Experiment in Autobiography," this morning at 10 o'clock in Rich's tea room.

"Experiment in Autobiography" has been a leader among the best sellers during the winter months. It is intensely interesting, not only because it is Wells' autobiography, but because it gives so many sidelights and opinions of the various widely-known figures whom Wells has interviewed. Stalin, Mussolini, and Hitler are among those of whom he speaks.

All those interested are invited to attend.

POLICEMAN SLAYS NEGRO WITH PISTOL

A negro who, after terrorizing the neighborhood, threatened to kill the patrolman who had been called to quell him, was shot and almost instantly killed in an alley off Crew street yesterday morning by Radio Patrolman G. W. Mauldin.

The negro, Henry Williams, Mauldin reported, had a revolver in his hand when they met in the alley. He commanded him to drop the pistol and the negro lifted it up and snapped it several times before the patrolman fired, sending five bullets into the negro's body.

STOUT CITES BENEFITS IN TAX ON INTANGIBLES

Relief for Home Owners Is Seen by Head of Real Estate Board.

Home owners will be principal beneficiaries of the plan to have all intangibles returned voluntarily for taxation before May 31, according to G. M. Stout, prominent in Atlanta business circles and for the past year president of the Atlanta Real Estate Board.

Mr. Stout, who has made a study of taxation on homes, said the placing of intangibles on the tax digest would equalize the burden and would result in thousands of dollars additional revenue.

The movement for the return of these intangibles voluntarily by the owners is being sponsored by a group of business organizations in co-operation with the taxation authorities of Fulton and DeKalb counties and Atlanta.

During the remainder of May, this property, when returned voluntarily, will be accepted for taxation at reduced assessments.

These include five cents on the dollar for cash, 15 per cent of the market value for stocks and bonds, and 25 per cent for first mortgages and 15 per cent for second mortgages.

All possible consideration will be given the property owner who makes voluntary returns, according to the tax authorities, and no questions will be asked concerning the date the property was acquired.

Grand Jury Secretary Gets Post at Tower

A "mystery job" developed yesterday when it became known that G. H. Turnipseed, secretary of the March-April grand jury which scored the county commission for salary increases, had been given an untitled position at Fulton tower.

No record of Turnipseed's appointment appears on the minutes of the commission and his name does not as yet appear on the pay roll.

He is, however, on the job at the jail, his duties being defined there as inspector of mattresses and superintendence of squads of trustees doing other sanitary work. It was learned at the tower that the work has heretofore been carried on by other employees of the jail, but that no one was dropped from the roll as a result of the new appointment.

Dr. C. Ross Adams, chairman of the commission, said yesterday he had no knowledge of the appointment.

OFFICER WOUNDED IN DEFENDING NEGRO

LOS ANGELES, May 13. (AP)—For his part in saving Alonzo Goodwin, 32, a negro, from a possible lynching, Police Officer L. E. McDonald, 20, may pay with his life.

McDonald went to the rescue of Goodwin late last night when an infuriated mob gathered after the negro's car collided with that of a white woman, and the negro was alleged to have become abusive.

As McDonald ordered the crowd to disperse, displaying his badge, Goodwin was alleged by the officers to have stabbed him in the chest with a pocket knife.

Officers found McDonald on the ground, bleeding profusely—but still endeavoring to protect the negro with his drawn pistol against the mob.

The negro was booked for suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon.

Over $100,000,000 is spent in Atlanta every year by Constitution readers who live in Atlanta and its suburbs. The Constitution has more than 100,000 net paid circulation every day—and more than 50,000 of this circulation is exclusively Constitution—i. e., over half The Constitution's subscribers read no other Atlanta newspaper.

The Constitution's more than 50,000 exclusive subscribers form a veritable city—much larger than most Southern cities.

The Constitution's more than 50,000 exclusive subscribers are equal to almost 80 per cent of the total city and suburban circulation of one of Atlanta's evening newspapers, and equal to more than 70 per cent of the total city and suburban circulation of the other Atlanta evening newspaper.

The Constitution's total daily net paid circulation is far greater* than that of any other Atlanta newspaper.

Burns in Explosion Cause Woman's Death

Burns received Sunday morning when her son-in-law, Paul Williams, struck a match to light a gas leak in the gas-filled kitchen of the residence at 373 Pryor street, proved fatal to Mrs. F. M. Allen, 46, who died early yesterday morning at Grady hospital. Williams last night remained in a critical condition.

The gas investigations yesterday disclosed that an accumulation of gas in the basement, when Williams struck the match to test the pipes running to the burners on the gas stove, an explosion which shook the neighborhood followed and Williams and Mrs. Allen were engulfed in flames. Williams pushed Mrs. Allen into an adjoining room and beat the flames from her clothing, but she had been severely burned in the explosion.

Mrs. Allen is survived by her daughter, Mrs. Paul Williams, and a son, F. J. Payne, of Los Angeles, Cal. Funeral arrangements will be announced by H. M. Patterson & Son.

Envoy Says Pilsudski Death Won't Affect Polish Policies

Polish nationalism has reached such a point that the death of Joseph Pilsudski, "Iron Man of Poland," will not precipitate chaos nor will it greatly embarrass the government, Stanislaw Patek, Polish ambassador to the United States, noted Polish patriot and personal friend of the Polish dictator, announced yesterday on a brief stop in Atlanta.

Although Patek declined to hazard a guess who would succeed Pilsudski, he asserted that no great changes in national or international policies are to be expected.

He was en route yesterday by Eastern Air planes from New Orleans to Washington and stopped in Atlanta only long enough to eat lunch.

The 69-year-old hero of many diplomatic battles, and one of the leading attorneys of Warsaw, was kindly visited. He spoke with a conviction which made it easy to understand his success in aiding in establishing the independence of the Polish nation.

Despite the fact that he is an accomplished linguist, speaking French, Russian, German and his native tongue with fluency, he stammered over his English, but what he did say had depth. It came from his heart and it was couched in strong terms.

Commanding Figure.

Even if newsmen had not surrounded him, his carriage and his personality would have distinguished him from his fellow passengers aboard the giant liner. No one was willing to point him out. He stood out. His is a commanding figure—a striking personality.

Posing for pictures, he did not wish to surrender to the hat, but he was to do so, smiled and grudgingly complied.

"It is difficult for me to speak of my friend, Pilsudski," he said. "He was a great man. To him Poland owes more than it will ever be able to pay in honor, in respect and in memory of a life given for the service and to the benefit of his people."

"Even before the World War, when Poland was divided into three parts—one under the control of Russia, another Austria and the other Germany—Pilsudski was busy arming patriotic Poles for the time when it would be opportune to strike for independence."

"When the World War broke out, Pilsudski threw troops into the field within seven days. He could not have done so if his army had not been already ready. He always has planned ahead."

No Fear for Future.

"Poland is now nationalized. I have no fear for the future. I am confident the nation has a destiny and it will fulfill it. There should be no real upheaval as a result of the passing of Pilsudski.

"Although his place will be hard to fill, he has planned for his death and Poland is ready to carry on. Polish people are strong. They are accustomed to hardship. They believe now in their destiny. They are united and patriots will see that those who would devastate the country for their own personal ends will not be successful."

Patek was born May 1, 1866, in Policzna, near Radom, Poland. He attended high school in Radom and later took a law course at the University of Warsaw. After he was admitted to the bar in Warsaw he and other Polish patriots formed the "Circle of Political Defenders" with the motto "Fight for those who are fighting for liberty."

Founded Secret Society.

During the Russian reprisals he was disbarred but he and others continued their fight for freedom and for defense of Poland and founded a secret society, which had been banned by Russian authorities, called "Society for the Relief of Political Prisoners."

He and Arthur Sliwinski, noted patriot and one of the principal advisers of Pilsudski in later years, communicated with Pilsudski when the World War broke out in 1914. Patek was named by Pilsudski as his representative in Switzerland, France and England during negotiations in the earlier years of the war.

In 1916 Patek returned to Warsaw and organized a municipal council. No municipal government existed under the Russian domination of Warsaw. He was appointed president of the criminal department of the appellate court at Warsaw and subsequently was named to the supreme court.

In German Camp.

He was incarcerated for six months in a German detention camp for patriotic activities in the interest of Poland.

Pilsudski designated him as Poland's representative at the treaty of Versailles. In 1919 he was appointed minister of foreign affairs. In 1920 he was named Polish plenipotentiary in London and he held that post until 1923. In 1923 he was named ambassador to the United States and has held that appointment since.

It is interesting about America to get an intimate glimpse of life in this country, its activities, potentialities and its achievements, he explained yesterday. He praised the United States and its people.

PILSUDSKI'S WILL MAY BE POLITICAL

Testament for Direction of Nation's Affairs Reported.

WARSAW, May 13.—(AP)—Huge groups of devoted Poles stood weeping in the streets on a dark day of hail and rain today, reading bulletins of the death of Marshal Joseph Pilsudski, while reports spread through the capital that the dictator had left a political will to guide the destiny of his nation.

Mr. Alexandra Pilsudski, wife and close collaborator of the dictator since his early struggles against Russia, suffered a heart attack today and her condition was "unsatisfactory," physicians said. She had tired herself out during Pilsudski's long illness.

Whether or not the marshal actually left a testament for the direction of Poland's affairs in the uncertain political course of the European continent probably will keep the world guessing for at least two days and perhaps until after the funeral at Cracow, informed quarters indicated.

There had been a persistent rumor that such a paper had been found, but the government is so concentrating its energies on the funeral plans, that the opening of the will—if such exists—will be left for a later time.

The fact that General Edward Rydz-Smigly, army leader, was summoned to the deathbed and remained there throughout Pilsudski's last hours with the family, was commented upon and was taken to mean that he was selected not only as the military but as the political successor of the marshal.

Premiere Appears Broken.

Others observed that Premier Walery Slawek, one of Pilsudski's most intimate friends, looked like a broken man today. While the loss of his friend would account for it, it was believed that he remained there, a feeling of great responsibility because of knowledge that he might become Pilsudski's successor.

Other points to Foreign Minister Joseph Slawek, as the new leader, it was generally believed that while the successor to the marshal would throw a significant light upon Poland's political future, no matter who that man may be, he would fail to inherit the moral power Pilsudski had.

The latest advice indicated the marshal's body would be transported to Cracow Friday. It is to lie in state at Wawel cathedral Saturday, with funeral services following either Saturday afternoon or Sunday morning.

The nation remained stunned at the death. No one except a few statesmen in high places knew that he was hopelessly ill.

He had been suffering from kidney trouble for some time, but with it there was a certain weakness that baffled the physicians. Last Good Friday he suffered his first liver attack and then his strength dropped rapidly.

Agree On Cause of Death.

Professor Karl Frederick Wencke, of Vienna, was summoned to consult with Polish surgeons. All then agreed the marshal was suffering from cancer of the liver and stomach. The marshal remained unconscious until Friday, when he asked about the progress of the preparations for the diplomatic visit of French Foreign Minister Pierre Laval.

The Viennese physician was called again at 11 p. m. by airplane, to be able to bring any relief to the patient. Pilsudski's death agony began at 3 p. m. yesterday.

The Polish government has forbidden all public amusements, theater performances, or music in restaurants until the day after the funeral.

Members of the army and government officials were ordered not to appear in places of public amusement until further notice.

The foreign office was handling huge stacks of letters and messages of condolence, and questions from foreign governments concerning the exact date of the funeral.

France with regard to the Ethiopian dispute.

A dispatch from Ankara, reporting rumors that Ethiopia might seek Turkey's assistance in the event of hostilities with Italy, brought the statement from informed quarters that Italy would be quick to resent any such alliance.

The government spokesman asserted, however, that Italy would take no notice of the reports until they were confirmed officially, asserting that there would be time enough then to outline the Italian attitude.

It was recalled that relations between Italy and Turkey were strained in December, 1934, when the Turkish government ordered maneuvers by its national defense forces in southwest Asia Minor as a result of concentration of an Italian fleet of airplanes at the Dodecanese islands.

SHARP PROTEST SENT TO ITALY BY SELASSIE

ADDIS ABABA, Abyssinia, May 13.—(UP)—The government of Emperor Haile Selassie I tonight sent another sharp note to Italy, regretting Rome had failed to reply to repeated requests for appointment of arbitrators to arrange peaceful settlement of the border dispute in east Africa and avert the increasing threat of war.

The note also repeated Abyssinia's request that Italy define the scope of the settlement of the dispute which the proposed peace commission is to consider.

Abyssinia pointed out that if Italy excludes an interpretation of the present treaties on the frontier line between Abyssinia and Italian Somaliland from the "terms of reference" to the commission, or insists on restricting the emperor's choice of arbitrators for Abyssinia to Ethiopians, then arbitration under such conditions is not acceptable.

The emperor desires to name neutral observers as well as Ethiopians on the Abyssinian side of the arbitration commission.

Melton Lauds Rich Advertisement Which Appeared in Constitution

Institutional advertisement of Rich's, Inc., which appeared in The Constitution a week ago and was devoted to "the greatest institution the world has ever known—the institution of Motherhood," so appealed to Wightman F. Melton, who conducts a daily column in The Griffin News, which is published by his son, Quincy Melton, that his column yesterday was devoted to the advertisement. He wrote:

"I do not recall ever having seen one newspaper comment favorably and editorially on an advertisement in another paper, but why not, when favorable comment is deserved? Besides, The Griffin News likes to be liberal and give honor to whom honor is due."

Last Monday morning, in The Atlanta Constitution, Rich's—Atlanta born, owned and managed—carried a full-page ad that did not mention a thing to sell. Diagonally, across the page there were pictures of four mothers, representing the four generations since the founding of Rich's in 1807; and here is what this unique and beautiful advertisement has to say:

"In those 68 years Rich's has seen mothers change—from a lovely retiring woman whose entire life was bounded by her family—her home—her church—into an active business woman who takes her part in the affairs of the world.

"Yes, mothers have changed. And yet—they haven't changed. For in 1805—just as in 1905—it is still MOTHER who holds the home and the world together in the circle of her unquenchable love. It is mother who smiles on—even when she smiles through tears. It is mother whose faith carries you on to high places—and whose comforting arms enfold you when the way is dark."

"Don't you agree with me that it is a beautiful thing for a great institution to pause to pay tribute to the greatest institution the world has ever known—the institution of motherhood?"

Turkey Demands Right To Rearm Dardanelles

BUCHAREST, May 13.—(AP)—Turkey served notice today on the states constituting the Balkan pact that she intends to demand at the forthcoming Rome conference the right to rearm the Dardanelles.

Turkey will ask conclusion of a new convention on rearmament of the famous straits connecting Europe and Asia to replace the international convention signed at Lausanne in 1929.

The Turkish representative surprised the delegates to the conference by saying Turkey demands the right not only to have mobile police all along both sides of the Dardanelles, but also airplane bases, underground military stations, underground military defenses and a network of modern communications.

This would make the Dardanelles even more formidable than they were before the World War.

LA GRANGE TROOPS FACE COURT TODAY

Two National Guardsmen
To Go on Trial in Death of Mill Striker.

LA GRANGE, Ga., May 13.—(AP)—Two Georgia national guardsmen will be tried before a military court here today in the death of Fannie Stephens, a Callaway cotton mill striker.

Stephens was one of several strikers injured in a brush between national guardsmen, who have been on duty here more than two months, and a group of textile workers April 19. The clash came as the first eviction of a striker was begun at a house owned by the mill.

Adjutant General Lindley Camp said the court-martial would be presided over by Major Usher T. Winstlett, of Macon, with Major Herbert Hatcher, the judge advocate and prosecutor, and Major Elbert Tuttle, of Atlanta, the defense counsel.

The trial, General Camp said, would be "open, and as other trials are held." The verdict of the court-martial, under the law, will go to Governor Talmadge for his approval before it is announced. The governor is commander-in-chief of the state military forces. Besides Major Winstlett, there will be nine other officers on the court-martial board.

Stephens, 33, and another strikers, who died in a hospital here Saturday night. Physicians attributed his death to complications from the bruises and said a weak heart probably contributed to the fatality.

ing tax is the only protective tariff ever offered the farmer.

In Nahant, Brantley county farmers passed resolutions saying "unless the triple A program is made permanent" they feared a second farm emergency which "might be even worse than that of the years 1930 to 1932."

In Americus, S. E. Statham, chairman of the state cotton advisory board, said: "I think it would be in the attitude of the highest order if we didn't expect to see the cotton program administered for this cotton program which has helped cotton farmers in the entire cotton belt."

Nine Sumter county farmers completed plans to join farmers of Georgia and other southern states in a trip to Washington to notify government officials of their support of the administration program.

FIERY SPEECHES FEATURE MEETING IN WILKES

WASHINGTON, Ga., May 13.—In fiery speeches backed by unanimous votes, resolutions, cotton farmers of Wilkes county answered interests clamoring for processing tax repeal, in a mass meeting at the courthouse Saturday.

Resolutions presented by J. E. Stoddard, E. A. Barnett and M. P. Pope affirmed "complete confidence in President Roosevelt, and his administration," who, it was added, "has made greater efforts to help our people than any other president or past public official."

"The discontinuance of the processing tax at this time," assembled farmers said, "would be deplorable, would work against the best interest of the southern farmer, and the people of the United States generally."

M. P. Pope and A. A. Frost were named to present adopted resolutions to Henry A. Wallace, secretary, at Washington, during the hearing on processing tax Tuesday and Wednesday.

J. M. Pitner was chairman, J. Luke Burdette, secretary of the two-hour meet.

150 TIGNALL FARMERS BACK PRESIDENT

TIGNALL, Ga., May 13.—One hundred and fifty farmers of the Tignall community voted to retain the cotton processing tax in a mass meeting here Saturday, while other cotton farmers at Washington were discussing the third major argument directed against AAA by textile manufacturers.

Resolutions urged that (1) the present plan of voluntary adjustment and compulsory allotments be continued; (2) that processing tax be continued; (3) that the farmers of Tignall support the AAA program to the end.

Gratitude was expressed to President Roosevelt and Secretary Wallace for a program "that has assisted us in maintaining a living standard in keeping with those engaged in other activities."

Tignall community farmers pledged "wholehearted co-operation and loyal support to the administration in its application of the entire recovery program."

R. H. Tolbert presided and resolutions were drawn by R. A. McLendon, S. J. Standard and S. W. Adams.

PIKE FARMERS ADOPT RESOLUTIONS AT MEETING

ZEBULON, Ga., May 13.—A mass meeting of the farmers of Pike county held Friday evening in the courthouse at Zebulon, resolutions were enthusiastically passed thanking President Roosevelt and the administration for what had been done for the farmers of Pike county and unanimously asked that the AAA program be continued.

C. A. Yarbrough of Williamson, was elected to go to Washington.

Resolutions adopted declared in part: "We, as cotton producers of Pike county, Georgia, are being unkindly of the untiring efforts of the present administration in behalf of the agricultural interests of the country, do hereby offer the following resolutions and recommendations:

"1. Realizing that the efforts of the present administration have brought relief to the individual farmer such as has never before been attempted and

"2. That a concerted movement is on foot for the dissolution and disruption of the entire AAA program, thereby eliminating the various processing taxes and especially the processing tax on cotton. May we therefore respectfully urge that the processing tax on cotton be continued, thereby insuring rental benefit and parity payments to co-operating producers; that the policy of the Commodity Credit Corporation in making loans to cotton producers be continued for the 1935-36 crop; that we believe the suggestion of paying rental benefit payments out of relief funds is wrong in principle and would be a detriment to both the AAA and relief programs.

"That if the processing tax on cotton be eliminated (which will be depriving the farmer of his tax) that the protective tariffs of manufacturers and processors be discarded, because if this should continue after elimination of the processing tax on cotton it would mean special privileges to certain classes, which we believe would be in violation of the principles of a true democracy.

"That you stand firm for southern cotton producers and help them maintain a standard of living in keeping with those engaged in other forms of work."

Oglethorpe's Visit Re-enacted As Augusta Observes Birthday

By SAM MOSS.

AUGUSTA, Ga., May 13.—(AP)—A modern "General Oglethorpe" portrayed by Edward Bryson, headed up the Savannah river toward Augusta today to see a far different scene than the one witnessed 200 years ago by General James Edward Oglethorpe. His arrival marked the official opening of the bi-centennial program in Augusta.

He passed by the lock and dam site at New Savannah, below the city, where the first concrete was poured at the head of navigation on the Savannah river development project, the beginning of a river development program designed to make this city a seaport.

He prepared to land near Old St. Paul's churchyard, where in the forest by the river bank in 1733 a company of soldiers led by Georgia's founder established King's fort at the head of navigation on the Savannah river to entrench Englishmen firmly in the colony.

At the pouring of concrete, Thomas J. Hamilton, postmaster, editor of the Chronicle and chairman of the Savannah river development commission, was presiding officer. Speakers were Judge Gordon W. Saussey, of Savannah; Ralph Wilcox, manager of the Arundel Corporation, Baltimore, Md., contractors on the job; Mayor R. E. Allen Jr., Senator John F. Williams, of Aiken county, South Carolina, and Major Creswell Garlington, government engineer in charge of the work.

The ceremony was connected with the founding of the city, which took place at Oglethorpe landed, received a delegation of Indian chiefs and braves and began construction of the fortress to form the nucleus of the settlement.

A pageant in which 3,000 persons will re-enact highlights of the city's development, an address by Mayor Allen and a parade are on tomorrow's program.

THOMPSON IS HELD IN COUSIN'S DEATH

MONROE, Ga., May 13.—(AP)—Will Riley, 56, was shot to death near here Saturday night and John Thompson, 54, his cousin, was ordered held for the shooting by a coroner's jury.

Sheriff E. S. Gordon said today the shooting took place in the yard of Mrs. Thompson's residence about three miles from Walnut Grove.

"There were no eyewitnesses," the sheriff said. "Mrs. Thompson and her husband lived in a state of separation, she on the farm near Walnut Grove, and Thompson in Walnut Grove, where he has a store. Thompson told me he was protecting his home."

The sheriff said that some years ago Thompson was charged with killing another cousin, Jess Thompson, and with shooting his uncle, Bud Thompson. "Mr. Thompson was acquitted on the charge of killing Jess Thompson and was not brought to trial in the shooting of Bud Thompson, since both cases grew out of the same incident."

Riley, a brother of Deputy Sheriff Mark Riley, of Walton county, was unmarried. The sheriff said John Thompson was taken to jail at Win-dermere, because Deputy Sheriff Riley is the jailer here.

THE TRUTH About Prices of Utility Stocks

BY July 1932 the depression had touched bottom, and had dragged with it the prices of both utility and industrial securities. But since that time there has been substantial recovery. Prices of 30 industrial stocks have risen more than 100%.

Utility stocks, however, have failed utterly to enjoy any recovery, and instead were 20% lower last March than they were at the depth of the depression in 1932. These figures are based upon the Dow-Jones averages, which have long been regarded as authoritative by financial and other business men.

Utility stocks began their present steep decline shortly after the Tennessee Valley Authority Act was passed in 1933. Since then electric and gas utility companies have been refused a share in the recovery that is being enjoyed by other industries, even though they helped to make that recovery possible by paying $300,000,000 in taxes in 1934.

They have been loaded with an excessive burden of taxation. Their rates have been forced down, depriving them of revenue. The government has encouraged municipalities to build power plants and has itself fostered huge power projects, to drive existing companies out of business. The fall in prices of utility securities, while the prices of other securities were rising, is the result.

OPPOSE WHEELER-RAYBURN BILL

Now comes the Wheeler-Rayburn Bill, whose purpose is to complete the ruin of utility investors to which government attacks have so contributed. The bill will wipe out practically all utility holding companies, and put about 91% of all local electric companies under stifling bureaucratic control from Washington. All utility investors, utility customers, and taxpayers generally should protest to their Senators and Representatives against this unnecessary destruction of property. Insist that your Congressmen assure you they will vote against this bill.

Very truly yours,

East Lansdowne, Pa.

FARLEY ATTACKED BY LONG IN SENATE

Packed Galleries, Unmoved Solons Greet Probe Demand.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—(AP)—After six hours of sniping debate in which Senator Long, characterized by Postmaster-General Farley as the "high muckety-muck of American political corruption," was defeated today by a vote of 75 to 25 on a resolution to investigate the cabinet officer's office.

Democratic leaders predicted the vote would be overwhelming against an inquiry.

Two democrats—McCarren, of Nevada, and Wheeler, of Montana, who was majority prosecutor in the Harry M. Daugherty investigation in the Harding administration—supported the resolution after Long had read an affidavit charging Farley with "manipulating government business and grants and contracts."

"They expressed the belief that the charges were untrue, but because of their consciousness should be gone into and let the chips fall where they may."

Borah Against Probe.

Senator Robinson, the democratic leader, asserted Long's action was based on personal feeling.

"When the circumstances show, as they do in this case, that the senator from Louisiana is persistently pursuing a personal grudge against Mr. Farley," Robinson said, "I don't think an investigation is necessary."

Senator Borah entered the debate with a declaration a senate investigation would be "futile" because if the charges were found to be true the senate could not remove Farley and its advance findings would render it incompetent to try any impeachment that may be voted by the house.

The affidavit read by Long was signed by Miss Helen Humphrey, a former employee of James A. Stewart & Company, building contractors, who said Harry D. Watts had forced that concern to double his salary and give him a contract at $25,000 a year on the claim he could throw business to the firm through Farley.

In a statement issued in New York, M. E. Kaletke, vice president of the Stewart firm, said he hoped the senate would show "malicious falsity" of Miss Humphrey's charges, and added that she had been discharged for "disloyalty" about a month ago.

Miss Humphrey's affidavit listed other charges, based on what she said she heard in telephone conversations between Farley and his secretary and Watts, charges which Wheeler said warranted an inquiry because of their nature.

"I have known Farley a long time," he said. "I have a high regard for his integrity and honesty, but when charges are made by United States senators they are quite different from those made by those outside the senate."

"Maybe Long has no facts and his vile acidity must be wiped out of stomach."

If you ever expect to get your strength back... sleep sound... wake up refreshed... eat without suffering heartburn, gas, sick headache, acid indigestion.

Eating food when stomach is excessively acid, because the activity of the gastric fluids is destroyed by it is almost sure to give you heartburn, sick headache, bloating, flatulence, nausea from the gas and acid indigestion.

You can tell when there is excessive acidity. Your mouth and throat are dry, you can't quench your thirst.

Excessive acidity destroys the activity of the gastric fluids. Get the acidity out of the way and your trouble is over. Do this the right way by drinking some water with a teaspoonful of Placidin in it several times a day, and especially before going to sleep. Get the acidity out of the way and the excessive acidity, lividates the lumps of undigested food and soothes the irritated stomach so the natural gastric fluids can become active again.

Wipe out the excessive acidity in your stomach before it gets into your bowels. From there the toxic poisons are carried all over your body causing so much pain and sickness. All drug stores have Placidin. It is not a purgative. Contains no sugar.

charges are based on personal spleen. I don't believe Farley is guilty of the things he charges but here is a sworn affidavit."

Demanding Miss Humphrey be called before the postoffice committee, McCarren declared the democratic party would be making a mistake not to inquire into it.

"To my mind," he said, "Farley is innocent, but I don't want him convicted by an affidavit."

Senator Bailey, member of the post-office committee majority which made an adverse report on the Long resolution, charged Long with political motives and said his charges were all based on hearsay and rumor that would not bear inquiry by any court.

Dressed in a cream-colored summer suit, Long led up to the Humphrey affidavit after reviewing the list of his former charges that Farley had interfered in federal prosecutions and aided in having "manipulated the award of government contracts."

Miss Humphrey, a former employee of Stewart & Co., said in her affidavit that Watts, who began with a salary of $12,000 with the firm, had exhibited a telegram to the company offering him a position in the treasury. Watts, she added, said he could turn government contracts through this job to Stewart competitors and would do so unless he were given a three-year contract at $25,000 a year.

She said that all of his demands were met, but that the company distrusted him and ordered her to listen to his telephone conversations. She said Watts was called by Farley or his secretaries and all conversations "covered a wide range of matters having to do with manipulating government business and grants and contracts."

She said Farley had "managed to grab all the papers and correspondence" of the Secretary of the Interior, named Green, and Louis Glavis, Ickes' investigator, a charge on which Long had this to say:

"Farley Has Papers."

"And here I was waiting three weeks to get all those papers. A fine chance I had with the papers in Farley's New York office."

He referred to his request upon Ickes, in a senate-approved resolution for a report on any connections between Farley and the Stewart Company, building contractors, who said Harry D. Watts had forced that concern to double his salary and give him a contract at $25,000 a year on the claim he could throw business to the firm through Farley.

Wheeler denied the charges as a result of his listening to telephone conversations, Miss Humphrey said after Farley got the Ickes papers "the entire files of the Ickes Stewart Company were taken out and mostly destroyed and a new filing system installed on advance notice that investigation would be likely soon."

Bailey said Long had failed to produce witnesses before the postoffice committee when asked to do so and contended the minority report offered no basis for voting an investigation because the senate had no right to investigate merely "to allay suspicion in the public mind."

Impachment Mentioned.

"We are not here to ally suspicion," he said. "We can't have an investigation simply because the circulation of charges has created suspicion in the public mind."

Questioned by Wheeler, Bailey said if he believed Long's charges were true he "not only would be for an investigation, but for an impeachment."

NEW YORK, May 13.—(AP)—M. E. Kaletke, vice president of James Stewart & Company, contractors named by Senator Huey Long at Washington today in voicing charges against Postmaster-General James A. Farley, said the company had discharged Miss Helen Humphrey, whose affidavit found evidence to support favoritism accusations, "for disloyalty."

In a statement Kaletke said "Miss Humphrey was employed as a telephone operator by this company and was discharged for disloyalty about a month ago. At that time she demanded $10,000 under threats that she would make trouble."

"She was paid nothing and apparently she has communicated with Senator Long," he said. "We hope the senate will provide an opportunity to establish the malicious falsity of her charges."

Distinguished Career.

After learning the rudiments of newspaper work, Major Cohen went to Mexico for a year with Captain William G. Raul, builder of the Mexican National railroad. In 1889 he went to New York as a member of the editorial staff of the World and the next year began his long association with the Atlanta Journal. Starting as a reporter, he in turn became managing editor, chief editorial writer and managing editor. In 1917 he was made president and editor.

Although he had been prominent in Georgia politics it was not until 1924 that Major Cohen attracted national attention when, with a number of other Georgians, he launched the presidential boom of William Gibbs McAdoo, a former Georgian who is now serving in the United States senate from California.

Headed Georgia Group.

Major Cohen led the Georgia delegation to the famous 1924 democratic convention in New York, where for several weeks he and other McAdoo leaders battled the forces of Governor Alfred E. Smith to a deadlock. A deal was eventually forced the nomination of John W. Davis, of West Virginia, as a compromise candidate.

At that convention, Major Cohen was elected democratic national committee man for the state, a post which he held until his death, although the democratic state convention in May, 1934, voted to unseat him, an action which was not approved by Major Cohen's old friend, Postmaster-General James A. Farley, chairman of the national committee.

Awarded High Post.

Major Cohen's national committee position in 1928 at the Houston convention which nominated Governor Smith and again was re-elected at Chicago in 1932 when President Roosevelt was nominated. At this time he was accorded the high honor of being chosen regional vice chairman of the national committee.

Major Cohen had held only one public office, that of United States senator, in 1932.

Early in 1932 when Senator William J. Harris died, Major Cohen was appointed to serve out the unexpired term by Governor Richard B. Russell Jr., who announced that he would give the full term to the paper when his tenure of office expired.

As editor, Major Cohen originated the plans for the national highway from New York city to Jacksonville, Fla. He materially aided in the building of "Greater Emory University," and the re-founding of Oglethorpe University.

No less a patron of art and music than of education, Major Cohen was a director of the Atlanta Music Festival Association which sponsors an annual program of grand opera in Atlanta.

Sailed With Evans.

When the Spanish-American War began, Major Cohen sailed with Admiral Rob Evans as a war correspondent and won much praise by his graphic descriptions of several notable engagements. It was not long, however, before he chose to become a participant rather than merely an observer in the war and returned to Georgia to enlist in the Third Georgia United States Volunteer Infantry. He served with the army of occupation in Cuba, being promoted from lieutenant to captain and then to the rank of major.

Major Cohen was born February 26, 1879, at Augusta, Ga., the son of Philip Lawrence Cohen and Ellen Gilbert Wright Cohen. His father was a Confederate soldier and his maternal grandfather, Major General Ambrose Ransom Wright, was a noted Confederate commander, lieutenant governor of Georgia and representative in congress from this state.

Courtesy, after the fashion of the old south from which he sprang, Major Cohen had a facility for friendship and his circle of intimates extended around the country. Besides journalism, his principal life work, his interests included politics, sports, literature and business and among his close friends he counted representatives of all those fields of endeavor.

The major's first venture into politics was as secretary to Hoke Smith when the latter was secretary of the interior in the second administration of President Grover Cleveland. Subsequently, the two men were closely associated, personally and politically.

Mr. Smith once paid this compliment to his former secretary: "I know of no man who can see farther ahead, or whose advice is sounder, than Major Cohen."

PRESIDENT CONDOLES

WASHINGTON, May 13.—(AP)—Messages of sympathy from persons high in governmental circles sped to Atlanta tonight upon receipt of word of the death of Major John S. Cohen, publisher of the Atlanta Journal and vice chairman of the democratic national committee.

President and Mrs. Roosevelt sent messages of deepest sympathy to Mrs. Cohen and the family. Mr. Roosevelt and Miss Cohen had been close friends for many years.

Postmaster-General Farley, his immediate chief in democratic party councils, also dispatched a message of deep sorrow.

Senator Walter F. George, democrat, Georgia, who served in the United States senate with the late Major Cohen, said Major Cohen was "early one of the leading citizens of the south and the nation."

Chairman Carl Vinson, democrat, Georgia, of the house naval affairs committee, said that Major Cohen always had worked for the betterment of his native state and the nation in his public activities. He pointed out that his publisher was a most prominent democrat and that the people of the nation would suffer by his passing.

usually toward practical exchange stabilizations.

"If that can be achieved, the final step should come easily and of its own accord. Unless somebody rocks the boat, that would be the natural course."

Silver Statement.

Morgenthau spoke much of gold and foreign trade. Of silver, which the government is directed to buy until world prices reach the coinage value of $1.29 an ounce or treasury stocks of a one-third ratio with gold, he said:

"We also are endeavoring to restore silver to greater usefulness as a monetary metal. It is the money of a large part of the world's population."

Morgenthau said that his own analysis of the dollar in these words: "First: You have an absolutely sound dollar."

"The monetary policy of this administration rescued us from chaos; held the fort during the most trying period of our recovery program; and now is the spearhead as we advance toward world peace."

"Third: Of the great trading nations that revalued their currencies, we were the last, until quite recently, when we were the first."

Hits Hoover Policies.

The treasury chief, who is President Roosevelt's right-hand advisor on finance, said that facing in 1932 the crisis of a flight of gold to Europe and "a further ruinous deflation of our prices, trade and industrial activity," the previous administration stubbornly refused to take action, evidently under the impression that that was a proud achievement, when it was obviously economic suicide.

"Our loss of gold, added to the calamity of declining trade, falling commodity prices and widespread unemployment," the secretary said, "caused bewilderment and then panic. The disaster swept over our country with the fury of a hurricane. Within a few months our financial structure was in a state of collapse."

"On taking his oath, Mr. Roosevelt assumed both the duties of president and receiver for a concern—the richest on earth—but on that tragic day face to face with calamity."

Headed for Disaster.

"We were headed for disaster unless the run on the banks could be stopped, and our gold reserves promptly achieved."

"In going off gold we were not the first, we were the thirty-first. The operation was completed in January of 1933 when the dollar was revalued at 59.06 per cent of its former gold content. Since that time we have enjoyed the soundest currency in the world."

Morgenthau said that under the new dollar, foreign trade in 1934 increased over 1932 and in 1933 in physical volume, dollar value and measured by percentage share in the physical volume of total world trade. This, he described as "the most remarkable because the volume of our agricultural exports was declining."

Because of such "unusual factors" as the drought and foreign quotas and embargoes, Morgenthau said, "I cannot state that our gold reserves are not in a state of collapse."

"Our gold reserves are not in a state of collapse," he said. "Our gold reserves are not in a state of collapse."

Favorite Arrangements of Hostesses Display Great Charm and Taste

By Sally Forth.

ATLANTA hostesses are famous, not only for the quality of hospitality they dispense, but also for the charm and distinction with which they arrange their luncheon, tea and dinner tables. Nowhere is there an opportunity to display one's taste to better advantage than on the table at which one's guests are seated. And he it said to Atlanta's credit that her hostesses do not overlook this golden opportunity.

Mrs. Andrew Calhoun, one of the most gracious of Atlanta hostesses and the chaperone of one of the city's handsomest homes, prefers an exquisite stiller and crystal, tea and dinner tables. A silver pedestal supports a crystal plate, from which arises a slender crystal vase. She likes to arrange delicate sprays of valley lilies upon the plate, with taller flowers in the vase. On other occasions she arranges colorful fruits on the plate, and repeats the tints in bright-hued flowers which fill the vase.

Picture a repousse silver urn filled with lemon lilies, acacia and yellow gini. If you are among the fortunate friends whom Mrs. LeRoy Childs invites to tea, you may find this lovely spectacle on her tea table, for it is among her favorite arrangements. She selects slender yellow tapers to fill the three-branched repousse silver candelabra with which she flanks the urn.

Mrs. Robert Alston's favorite table ornament is a set of pottery fashioned especially for her in Blois, that quaint old French town known for such wares. A graceful urn-shaped bowl, single candlesticks, compotes and salt dishes comprise the set which combines pale green with dull blue to entrancing effect. The pieces bear the coats of arms of various French sovereigns, and the seal of a master craftsman. Mrs. Alston especially likes to arrange yellow flowers in the urn, with deep yellow tapers in the candlesticks, and a bit of yellow in her place cards.

Mrs. Phinlay Calhoun, who has a penchant for vivid colors, selects a red glass bowl, a pair of red glass candlesticks with clear crystal pendants, and red glass compotes for her always tastefully arranged table. From her gardens she gathers petunias in reds, pinks and deep rich purples to fill the bowl. Can you imagine a more charming effect?

A low, flat crystal bowl of exquisite design is Mrs. Charles A. Sisson's choice for her smart luncheons. Sometimes she employs a white and green motif and dresses her table in gardenias, feverfew and Shasta daisies, with tall crystal compotes and goblets to add to the effectiveness of the appointments. In another favorite arrangement, Mrs. Sisson, who is artistic in everything she does, selects a pale green damask cloth which she centers with her lovely crystal bowl filled with pale lavender lilies.

THERE will be much tradition about the christening of Cary, the adorable infant daughter of Dr. and Mrs. William R. Minnich. Not only will she be attired in her father's christening robe, which he wore 30 years ago in Paducah, Ky., but the service will be performed by Dr. J. Spole Lyon, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, who officiated at the marriage of the baby's parents.

The robe is made of exquisite sheer batiste and the seams are put together with a mitre-stitch. The yoke is fashioned of strips of batiste and real lace. The robe measures more than a yard in length, which was the style in the year of 1905. Baby Cary is the more than three-month-old daughter of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Minnich and Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Paulin are her proud grandparents.

Although the exact date of this impressive event has not been decided, it will take place in Winship Memorial chapel in the presence of relatives and admiring friends. The baby is the namesake of her charming mother, Caroline Paulin Minnich, as Cary is a contraction of Caroline. She bears a name that has been given seven generations of feminine members of her mother's family.

Friendly Counsel

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD.
Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name need not be published. Write to Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:
I got married with the determination to love my mother-in-law—to make a mother of her. Today I am conventionally polite for my husband's sake, and I have nothing in common. She is prosaic and mercenary while I still tread romantic air after seven years of matrimony. On my first trip to visit her I offered to show her my trousseau things I had made and things that were given to me. She assured me she didn't care to see them, though she added some other members of the family might. There is no such thing as sustained conversation between us because I must always be on my guard and never intimate what I have had a dime or ever expect to have one. I am not extravagant as is proven by the fact that my husband calls me "Scotchie." His mother wants me to live on nothing, although she has everything she wanted when she was a bride. Perhaps the depression has warped her. When she comes to see me she wears her best clothes and has a bid for sympathy and also as an example of thrift. The only sympathy this draws is sympathy of my friends for me. I never throw them with her deliberately for her conversation draws wearily along about her and situation, her fears for the future. Why does a woman have to marry the husband's family and put up with all this?

OIL THAT WON'T MIX WITH WATER.

Answer: My dear woman, there is plenty to grieve over in your situation, but more to rejoice over, for your mother-in-law doesn't live with you, or you with her, which might be worse. Your get-togethers are reduced to minimum because you don't enjoy each other. It is only semi-occasionally that you have the annoyance of her presence and the irritation of her conversation. Then, on these occasions you can school yourself to be patient under her criticisms, implied and expressed, to listen respectfully to her soliloquies and to lay aside the advice she offers just as you lay aside a book that bores you. But you can do none of this if you maintain the attitude that you now have toward her.

You are young. She is old, too old to change her habits of thought and too old to mend her ways. But she is your husband's mother and on this ground alone she deserves respect at your hands, and some sympathy too, for she is evidently unhappy and depressed. Conventional politeness is not enough. You owe her something more. By giving her more you can endear yourself to your husband and eradicate the bitterness in your heart. Though you may not admit it, to yourself there is bitterness in your heart.

Fire Association President Proposes To Enlist Aid Of Parent-Teacher Groups To Cut Losses, Deaths by Fire

Officers and directors of the National Fire Protection Association, in convention at the Biltmore hotel, are shown above. Seated, left to right, Richard E. Verner, of Chicago, a director; Franklin H. Wentworth, of Boston, secretary-treasurer and managing director of the association; Albert T. Bell, of Atlantic City, chairman of the board of Enlistment of Parent-Teacher associations, with their 1,250,000 members in the United States, in the cause of fire prevention, was advocated by Harold L. Miner, of Wilmington, Del., president of the National Fire Protection Association, at the opening session of the 38th annual convention of the organization yesterday at the Biltmore hotel.

P. S. Arkwright, president of the Georgia Power Company, spoke at last night's session, discussing "The Utilities Interest in Fire Prevention." The National Fire Protection Association is a non-commercial, non-profit organization designed to reduce fire hazards and fire losses through a program of education. The convention, attended by more than 800 delegates, will continue through Friday. A motor trip to Fort Benning and Warm Springs being planned for the final day of the program.

The conclave opened yesterday morning, with the fire marshals' division of the association meeting to discuss the problem of arson and fire prevention campaigns. George Riley, state fire marshal of Mississippi, discussed the campaign against arson, while Harry Phillips, assistant fire marshal of Atlanta, told how this city won the national fire prevention week award. President Miner informed the members that a greater and more concentrated effort must be made to reduce the needless destruction by fire of home property and life. One of the channels which could be used, he said, is the Parent-Teacher Association, which has 20,000 local organizations scattered throughout the United States. He suggested the organization of a parent-teacher association section in the National Fire Protection Association. The parent-teacher groups, Miner said, could become an energetic, motivating force in home fire prevention.

Franklin H. Wentworth, managing director of the NFPA, submitted his annual report to the association. He discussed recent reductions in the fire losses of the country, declaring that high taxes on antiquated buildings frequently caused a rise in fire losses. Various sections of the association will hold group meetings today, receiving committee reports, while a series of motion pictures, among them "Fires in Review," will be shown at the session tonight. More sectional meetings are scheduled for tomorrow with the annual banquet of the association taking place at night in the Biltmore.

With his wife he left here today en route to Boston. He planned to meet his expedition ships at Cape Cod canal and proceed with them to Boston, where Massachusetts has declared a state holiday for their return.

Brand as false the statement carried in local newspapers under a Washington date line that United States veterans were paid more than World War veterans of other nations. Greater Atlanta Post No. 390, Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States, yesterday issued a statement in which figures are cited to show that the United States is doing less for its veterans than other allies of the war.

"In relation to its national wealth and income," the statement sets out, "the United States government is paying compensation to its disabled World War veterans only one-half, one-third or even less of the amount being paid by other nations to their World War veterans. Based on our national wealth per thousand dollars, the United States is paying its veterans $1.39 as compared to $1.83 by Great Britain, $2.63 by Canada, $2.47 by Italy, $5.84 by France and $6.83 by Germany."

Based on national income per thousand dollars, the United States is paying its veterans $8.83 as compared to $12.48 by France, $10.84 by Germany, $13.28 by Italy, $11.01 by Great Britain and $10.15 by Canada," the statement set out.

The news story reported that in 1932 the government spent for hospitalization and other care of the veterans an average of $180 per man mobilized for the war. The figures were based on the records of the Veterans' Bureau and the result was obtained by dividing the number of veterans into the amount spent for their care, which amounted to about $1,043,000 a day.

FREE LOVE CHARGE SPOTS RED PROBE AT U. OF CHICAGO

CHICAGO, May 13.—(AP)—Charges that some teaching methods at the University of Chicago "evidence a subtle design to impress communistic views on the student mind" were advanced and denied today at a spirited hearing before a state senate investigating committee.

The statements of Charles R. Walgreen, chain drug store executive, who appeared in the role of complainant, were immediately branded as false by Dr. Robert Maynard Hutchins, 36-year-old president of the school, two faculty members and a trustee. They made the counter-charge that the quack culminated "efforts to break down and destroy one of the greatest centers of civic instruction in America."

Walgreen, whose withdrawal from the university of his 18-year-old niece, Miss Lucille North, of Seattle, precipitated the controversy, told the five-man committee:

"I can ascribe my niece's views (on communism and capitalism) to one cause only, the character of the instruction given her. It is a serious matter," he continued, "when a professor upon being asked 'What do you think of free love?' replies: 'I believe in free love for myself.' Walgreen added that this was not taught at the university, however."

In answer to a question he impudently asked the free love quotation to Frederick L. Schumann, assistant professor of political science.

BYRD 'NOT THROUGH' WITH EXPLORATIONS

WINCHESTER, Va., May 13.—(AP)—The man who has flown over both poles, flown the Atlantic, and kept a long, lonely vigil at an advanced Antarctic outpost, in the quest of scientific discovery, today announced that he was not through.

Two of the reasons why so many men and women prefer Theodor's Black-Draught—

They like its thorough, cleansing action.

They like that "better feeling the next morning" a refreshed feeling after the release of intestinal poisons resulting from constipation.

"I have taken Black-Draught for biliousness, indigestion, a good remedy," wrote Mr. E. J. Shaw, of Marion, Va. "It helped me and relieved me quicker than anything I have ever taken. I felt all right and felt that I needed a good laxative of some kind. I had seen Black-Draught advertised, so I took it. Now I can recommend it to anyone."

The descendants of the late James Landrum will meet for a family reunion on Sunday, May 19, at the home of Francis C. Landrum on Dodson drive and Campbellton road in West End. Each guest is requested to bring a picnic lunch to be served on the spacious lawn encircling the Landrum ancestral residence.

Judge John D. Humphries will speak. The entertainment, an annual affair given by the relatives of the loved Georgia pioneer, will assemble over 100 relatives. The guests will be received by Francis C. Landrum, John Landrum and Henry Landrum, sons of the late James Landrum.

The revered ancestor of the Landrum family served with distinction in the Confederate army as a member of General Hardee's Corps and participated in the fighting around Atlanta. He married the late Miss Jane Blackstone in Landrum, S. C., and later moved to Georgia to establish his residence. He was an active member and deacon of the Utoy Baptist church. He died at the age of 89 and is survived by his children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

Was So Nervous She Wanted To Scream

Husband Sees Great Difference Since She Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Was Nervous and Run-down
"I was nervous and run-down. When I got up in the morning I felt too tired to do my work. I had such backache and soreness in my stomach I was always full of gas. Since I took the Vegetable Compound I am like a new person. I feel well and strong to take care of my big home and two children." Mrs. Amelia Otto, 3626 Fifth Street, Brooklyn, Maryland.

"I Can Not Do My Work"
"How often we hear a woman say it. How discouraged and helpless she feels. Here is a medicine which has helped thousands of women who were tired, nervous and run-down. It will quiet quivering nerves—give you just the extra energy you need. Try it! All druggists sell it."

"I Am 10 years old and I have been married five months. I felt weak, sick, and run-down. Every afternoon I used to lie down. My mother advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I did and now I feel strong and full of energy. I do all my work and feel as well after a day's work as I did in the morning." Mrs. Edith M. Ralston, Tyre, Pennsylvania.

Mrs. CLARENCE R. DAVIDSON
R. #2, Mishawaka, Indiana
"When I was a young girl, the Vegetable Compound helped me. I am working hard now in a factory. One night, coming home I was so nervous I wanted to scream. I bought a bottle of your medicine. My husband remarked last night of the difference he sees in me. I am a cheerful, joking, young girl once more."

Crackers Slaughter Lookouts in Opening of Series, 3 to 2

HAVANA, May 11.—(By Air Mail).—With the return of peaceful days to the Pearl of the Antilles, the interest in baseball is back again.

Never will I forget my embarrassment here a couple of years ago. I was in the office of El Pais, and the sports department, visiting my friend, the renowned Pepe Conte.

Two of his assistants were having a terrible argument and Pepe Conte said: "They are arguing about a ball player who was with your club before he went to the major leagues, a fellow named Hal Lee. One of them says he hit .342 with your club three years ago and the other says it was .328. They want to ask you but do not know if it is polite."

"Tell them," I pleaded, "not to ask me because I haven't the slightest idea. I don't remember averages."

Just then another of the assistants came in and they asked him and he told them. The Cuban baseball reporters know more baseball than any reporters I ever saw.

It is very curious to see the papers here carrying eight-column ribbons on the results of the major league games, plus the box scores and averages. Baseball has become the real passion of the country, unless it is gambling.

Many of the papers have scoreboards outside the buildings and post results of the games there for the curious crowds.

And baseball is the big interest at present, especially because the Brooklyn are in the race and Al Lopez, who is Cuban, even if he is from Ybor City at Tampa, Fla., is the big hero.

Before quitting Tampa last week I saw one of the two Spanish papers published in Ybor City. They carry the batting average of Al Lopez in a special box each day. Which is the height of game and glory.

The former Cracker catcher is a real hero in his home town. And he is more of a hero because he took another Ybor City youth, Manuel Onis, with him to Brooklyn and the kid has become the third-string catcher up there.

THE POOR PEACEFUL ONE.

When more than a year ago, during the time when Gerardo Machado's powers were tottering and street fights were no novelty, I attended a prize fight one evening with my friends from the sports departments of two Cuban papers.

It was a curious fight club. There was a bar there and they were engaged in the bootlegging business. Not with rum or booze, but with American cigarettes. They were being bootlegged at 35 cents the pack, the regular wholesale price being 75 cents.

The main event this evening was between a very black boy with big white teeth who was managed by Pepe Conte. The sports editors over here, in the old days, often had strings of fighters and publicized them in their papers, journalism being a bit free.

And I will never forget Pepe Conte's harangue to this boy. Pepe Conte was haranguing him in Spanish but now and then the English words crept in. They were, I regret to say, very profane words and phrases and the only things I could understand in the speech.

The boy seemed delighted and every time Pepe Conte would let loose some blistering English the boy would look at me and grin most happily.

When he was started for his ring with his seconds I asked Conte what he had said.

"Nothing much," he said calmly. "I told him if he did not win I would cut out his heart and feed it to the crows."

As long as I live that will be the greatest pep talk before battle I ever heard. Even though I understood only the swearing part of it.

And so help me if De La Paz (The Peaceful One) didn't fight like a tiger and upset the dope with a victory.

It seems that in all the trouble before the Mendieta government restored order, that De La Paz disappeared. I'd like to see him fight again.

MACHADO ANTIQUES.

Now that President Mendieta and Colonel Fulgencio Batista have returned law and order to the island republic, one does not find as many statues around.

When I was here last there were numerous statues of the then President Gerardo Machado here and there. There were several of them in the streets and parks and one up on the Malecon drive near the Maine monument.

But they are no more. President Machado took it on the lam, as the boys say, with several thousand people thirsting for his blood, and they still are thirsting. So Machado remains carefully away.

And the statues are gone. Some of them were dumped in the harbor. Others were torn to bits and others were blasted out. There is no statue to Machado.

When he did take it on the run the people looted his palace, that palace where I sat one hot day and had an interview with Machado. They tossed furniture out the windows and old hags were wrapping silk dresses about themselves and carrying away gold and silver candlesticks, rare furniture, rugs, curtains, linens and that sort of thing.

In fact, most any house in the island can show some souvenir of the Machado palace. The people had been gouged out of money to pay for the stuff while they went hungry. And they got it back in the final analysis.

THE AMERICAN CLUB.

As soon as I have time I am going to the American Club and to the bar and ask the barkeep for the list of members which is in a frame back of the bar. And I will then salute the No. 1 member.

It will be a salute to Colonel Tillinghast L'Hommiedieu Huston, of Darien and Butler's Island, in Georgia. He came here during the war of 1898 as a colonel of engineers and he went to France as a colonel of engineers. But while here in 1898 as a youngster he helped organize the American Club.

He is the only one of the charter members left on the list. Hence he is No. 1. And well worth a salute, is the colonel of Butler's Island.

Here's to you, colonel, down there on the Altamaha. Long may you be No. 1!

Brokers' Views

STOCK OPTIONS.
FENNELL & BEANE—We believe that further selective gains over the near term is a reasonable expectation.

COURTS & CO.—Inflation sentiment and leveraged demand alone will be the dominant influences and are likely to continue as such.

WILLIAMS & COMPANY—An encouraging development of Monday's action was the demonstration for activity to diminish on de-

COTTON OPINIONS.
FENNER & BEANE—We have a favorable view of the cotton market. Believe prices on dips will prove best.
COURTIS & CO.—The market continues to be very quiet. The price of cotton should and should be favorably influenced by government action.
MURRAY BROS. & CO.—There is nothing to indicate any change from the recent decline. The market is very quiet. In purchasing, July Liverpool seed 6.45.
FENNER & BEANE—The cotton market is very quiet. The price of cotton is very uncertain, and the government's 1935 cotton program, we favor a decline in price and taking profits on moderate advances.

GRAIN OPINIONS.
FENNER & BEANE—The action of the wheat market has been very quiet. In view of the recent decline we would be inclined to be conservative in the selling side at the present level.
COURTIS & CO.—All grains have had a decline in price. The market is very quiet. A setback is due temporarily at least.

BEER & CO.—We don't think much of the wheat market except running in shorts.

SCREEN TIME

While you're fixing up the house, don't forget the screens. The flies are already with us. The gnats and the mosquitoes are not far behind.

There's a difference in screens, as we have learned during 51 years of supplying Atlanta with our wide range of building materials. Some last. Some rust out in a hurry. And there's really very little difference in the initial cost.

Give us a ring, and let us help you get your screens in order for the Summer.
